The Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP) funded by the Ministry of Environment of Korea (KME) is designed to support Graduate Studies Program for government officials working in environment or related fields in Korea's partnering countries

The main goal of MGLEP is to support the training of key personnel who have the capacity to lead the sustainable economic and social development of our partnering countries through the transfer of Korea's know-how and experiences in environmental improvement.

The KME launched the program for the first time in 2015, reflecting the demand of its partnering countries for the long-term capacity-building programs discussed during high-level meetings and through the international cooperation network of the Ministry.

This program is expected to contribute to the capacity-building in environmental policy of partnering countries by allowing the participants to experience Korea's development process, acquire specialized knowledge in the field of environment through intensive training, and strengthen the ability for policy development and analysis.

With the ownership of the program, the KME will put its best efforts to support participants of MGLEP not only in expanding their knowledge of environmental policy and technology, but also establishing valuable networks and experiencing Korean culture, society and history through this invitation program for officials of our partnering countries.

International Environmental Cooperation Center (IECC) of Korea Environmental Industry & Technology Institute (KEITI)

In 2009, the Korea Environmental Industry & Technology Institute (hereinafter referred to as "KEITI") was founded as a quasi-government organization under the Ministry of Environment of the Republic of Korea. As taking the major lead in developing environmental technologies, fostering environmental industry, and spreading eco-friendly lifestyles, KEITI is contributing to offer improved environmental welfare services for citizens and to achieve sustainable development both domestically and internationally.

The International Environmental Cooperation Center (hereinafter referred to as "IECC") has established in 2020 in order to lead the international environmental cooperation of the Korean government under the guidance of the Ministry of Environment based on extensive research and cooperation activities in an effort to make transition towards sustainable and green future.

Under the Vision, "Global green partnership platform for sustainable future", IECC is managing the Master's program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy for foreign government officials, through which we share environmental knowledge and strengthening partnership.

Hub of 'International Networking' for Global Experts

Shin LEE
Dean of ISUS, University of Seoul

Welcome to ISUS. In the midst of rapid urbanization during the process of compressed economic growth, our country has accumulated unique experiences and know-how in the urban development and administration field.

Such urban growth of the Republic of Korea has helped gain the attention of many countries abroad hoping for an opportunity of sharing the experience.

Meanwhile, although our construction companies have won a high reputation in infrastructure development such as road, harbor, and plant construction, the turning point for a qualitative take-off has become necessary as the competition with other development-pursuing countries intensified.

Like so, having the domestic and foreign demand into consideration, providing a comprehensive solution relative to the urban development and management with our experience and know-how's and opening the way to the comprehensive package of urban development for the whole world has become a national agenda that we must pursue. During the process, we anticipate further overseas expansion of the Korean construction companies by the development of new modules.

The University of Seoul, which pioneered through the research and education of urban-related fields, has met such demands of the current era by establishing the International School of Urban Sciences with the goal of fostering global city professionals in 2012. On one hand, we educate domestic city professionals so that they will be able to advance towards overseas urban development and management fields, and on the other hand, we provide foreign public officials the opportunity to learn and experience Korea first-handedly by managing the International Urban Development Program (IUPD). In addition, our graduate school will be the platform on which domestic professionals and foreign public officials cultivate global insight by interacting with each other and creating an international network.

The ISUS is committed to establishing itself as the center of research and international cooperation in the area of urban sciences.

We expect your continued interest and support.

Thank you.
